With “plan summer vacation” still on my to-do list I suspect the closest I’ll be getting to a sparkling beach anytime soon will be my computer monitor.

In the meantime, though, I’ll be indulging my inner Girl From Ipanema with a few of these summer hotties.

BOBBI BROWN

Ok, so you can’t sink your little piggies into it but look on the bright side—Bobbi Brown’s Beach Sandbar Soap won’t leave a gritty mess on your beach towel, either. Its creamy, lathering formula contains sand to gently exfoliate the skin while leaving a light scent that transports you to the beach-a-thons of your sophomore year. $16, Nordstrom

DIOR

“A hue reminiscent of golden sun and gilded bronze skin” is how Dior describes Golden Nugget, its hot new shade of Vernis Long-Wearing Nail Lacquer. Sold! Forget doodling—next time I need diversion in a boring meeting I’ll just gaze at my gold-coast nails and dream of the Bahamas. $19 Sephora, Neiman Marcus, Nordstrom, Saks Fifth Avenue

PEDEGG

Just between us, okay, we know that glamour is not always so glam. Trust me on this: Run out and get a PedEgg. Yes, this is the white oval plastic device you see demo-ed on the bad commercials. It looks like a cheese grater but for feet. I’m telling you, though, after 10 minutes of gentle use (while watching bad TV, coincidentally enough) it made my rhino heels buttery smooth like no other device, potion, or treatment ever has. Despite its slightly scary appearance it doesn’t hurt or irritate, and it’s constructed to allow the more dainty among us to discard what it’s collected with nary a glance. About $10. MAKE UP FOR EVER

Bring the colors of shimmering sand and sky into your makeup bag with Make Up For Ever’s Aqua Eyes Bronze Collection. This set of five mini-pencils highlights your eyes with metallic-flecked shades of copper, gold, silver, brown, and black. And if you do venture out among the waves the color will stay put until you take it off. These are limited edition, so if you want them make a dash to Sephora.
